SPECIAL INTEREST INFORMATION

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Hello there fellow George Brownians, let me tell you a little story about time management and how it can save your life.

Last semester I fell victim to the lack of time management rather than the lack of time and it hurt. So here is what one should do if they feel like they are slipping further and further away from reality.

1. Stop thinking your doing fine; denial is always the first sign.
2. Start limiting yourself, and quit taking on more than you can handle; to know ones ability, is a better use of time.
3. Make lists of what has to be done, and organize the list from least important to most.

4. Control that party animal within; run your social life, don't let it run you.
5. Personal problems always interfere when least expected, telling a good friend always helps; it relieves an unwanted burden that can take up time.
6. Relax, take a breather every once and a while. Remember, you're only human.

These little points of interest have helped me, and hopefully they can maybe help you. It's short, but for now it's all I have.

Now let's move to another topic, this particular column used to be called "Letter to the Editor" and with the overwhelming response I had to stop! (SARCASM). I know there are lots of questions you want to ask, so ask!

Another note to those interested, the "DIALOG" has now incorporated a photo scanner. All photographs in this months "DIALOG" have been electronically produced, in hopes to save money and produce a better paper. Let me know what you think?

questions are not answered by the following, please make your concerns known to your S.A.C. representatives or me, Franky Rm. 126 St. James (867-2674)

Q. Why is George Brown asking students what they think of their teachers?

A. Any performance review is only as effective as the number and quality of sources of feedback. Students have their experiences and perceptions to share with faculty.

Q. What will happen to the evaluation forms once they are handed back to the teacher?

A. Each faculty member summarizes the responses from the students and shares the summaries with the class. Later, the summary also goes to the review meeting with the chair. (Editor's note: the "chair" or chairperson is the manager of an academic department at George Brown.)

Q. Will the college punish or fire teachers who get bad evaluations?

A. The focus of performance

MUSINGS FROM A MATURE STUDENT

By Wanda Cousins

At this stage of your lives many of you have decided which career path you are going to follow. For you, getting experience or at least getting involved in work related to your field may or may not be easy, depending on you and your attitude.

I chose to become a human services counsellor and this past summer worked at the John Howard Society of Metropolitan Toronto. My initial thinking was that I would enjoy a career of helping the incarcerated and former incarcerated people help in getting jobs, securing housing, as well as providing emotional support when needed. I went in there with a head full of visions of how I could and would change the system almost single-handedly and soon dropped back to earth with a resounding thud.

Instead what I received were long hours of endless telephone calls to employers in the fervent hope that among the clientele of JHS, I would find some job for somebody, providing at least in some small measure of self-worth and dignity. After two days and what seemed like four hundred phone calls, I managed to inform JHS that I had found 30 positions for our clients. Another of my duties was replacing files after clients were seen.

One of the most boring jobs I encountered while at JHS was purging files, some of which dated back as far as 1982. Your back aches after seven hours and a thousand or so files later. No, I was not compensated by a paycheck every two weeks. I put in at least 70 hours one month, another month it was 65.

During this time I changed my preference and decided to switch to mental health and addictions instead. Having a vested interest in both, I know I have made the right choice.

What about you? If you are not as sure of your goals as I am, try to get in some volunteer work in your area of interest to you before you spend two or three years of your life in college only to find out its not for you.

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH: Doing something that helps others brings a reward far greater than money. Bye for now.

P.S. Where are those letters? Wanda.

TEACHER EVALUATIONS

The college has begun its process of "Performance Planning for Excellence". As part of this new system, Teacher evaluations will begin this spring. In preparation, the Student Life Advisory Committee was asked, by the Student Issues Committee of College Council, to address issues and concerns students may have about the evaluations. The following questions were formulated by Niel McGillivray, in consultation with the Advisory Committee, and submitted by Bill Vine of Staff Development. Bill has offered to provide to provide any further information and copies of the evaluation for interested students. Copies of the evaluation are available at your S.A.C. Office. If your

Q. How long after filling out the evaluation forms should students expect to get a summary of results from a teacher?

A. Immediacy is important for both parties. It is preferred that the summary is shared within a two week period. The statistical analysis may take longer for large classes if a backlog develops at the computer readers. The immediacy also relates to making changes to better serve current students.

Q. What form will the summary of class evaluations take? Will it include a statistical summary of responses? Can students request a statistical summary if they are offered just an interpretation of the results by their teacher?

A. The responses are feedback for the faculty; the summary is a basis for discussion with the class. The process requires a level of mutual respect, skills and shared goals. The initial sessions may be awkward until both parties have developed effective feedback as part of their communication skills. The mutual goal is an improved learning environment not an adversarial win/lose game. There is no built-in mechanism for students to access statistical data.

Q. Can students access their evaluation form or the summary of their class evaluation results for use in student appeals?

A. The appeals process is based on the materials submitted by the student for review along with the course outlines and assignment expectations. It is not apparent that the class evaluation has relevance or can be related to the individual student's work.

Q. Are evaluation forms being distributed in the middle of the semester to allow teachers to change their teaching methods if the forms indicate that changes are needed?

A. The ideal process requires the evaluation forms to be done in mid-term so that current students can gain from changes resulting from student feedback.

Q. What can students do if their teachers do not respond to suggestions made in evaluations? Where and how should students complain about teachers?

A. The preferred process is a dialogue leading to negotiated changes between students and faculty. If this does not produce change, students can take their concerns to the chair or higher if necessary. The first step is dialogue with the faculty, then proceed to the next step. The student handbook describes the appeals and complaints processes.

Q. If teachers are doing a really good job, how can students let a teacher's supervisor or the college community know about it?

A. In the same way as above, first direct approval to the faculty. Then forward a letter of appreciation to the chair and dean. Praise is always welcome. There is a process through the Board of Governors to nominate faculty recognition. Editor's note: All students are invited to nominate teachers or other college staff for Board of Governors Awards of Excellence, which are awarded annually in the spring. Nomination forms are available in the S.A.C. office and other offices around the college. (The preceding article was taken from City College News.)

Re: $5 million George Brown College Budget Deficit 91-92

Deficits create a very stressful working environment for excellence in teaching, curriculum development, performance review, standards, etc....

Due to high unemployment, especially in Ontario, the tax base of both Federal and Provincial governments has eroded and have reduced tax revenues. The governments are broke and they cannot borrow more to keep the public sector employment rate and expenses at the level of 80's.

As a teacher, I feel that George Brown community must maintain public trust and accountability. Speaking for myself I find it is not productive to be critical of the government, administration or the Union.

To wipe out the $5 million deficit and to minimize the impact of layoffs of fellow teachers, support staff etc. (we are all together in it) I suggest that all members of George Brown community take a 20% cut from one month of our salary. This is not a permanent reduction but only a one time loss of income. This should eliminate the deficit.

If we do not show our concern and responsibility to the public and to our government, we may destroy our image as teachers, administrators and union leaders, but more importantly, the governments may be forced to close some colleges and universities permanently and allow hefty increases in tuition fees to balance the books.

K.K. Puri
Graphic Arts Division

Dear Mr. Puri,

I would like to commend you on offering a solution to a problem as opposed to just complaining about it. This appears to be a simple and straight forward solution and I wish more people thought like you, and offered more solutions. Unfortunately, a 20% cut will impact every staff member differently.

After having attended the Town Hall meeting on January 14, 1993 at St. James, it is evident that new methods of cutting costs and earning revenues are needed. I can't speak for staff when it comes to wages and salaries, and I can't argue that this is the only solution for the College's deficit. I can however argue that we as a College Community need to find new initiatives that will ensure the safety of jobs and future of the College.

I think that once staff read your letter they may have very different thoughts about your idea and different opinions. I would like to leave open the option for staff to respond to your letter. I would also like to welcome staff and students to send their ideas to the Dialog outlining other ways that George Brown College can beat this deficit.

CLASS CANCELLED...

Have you been frustrated on an early cold morning when you have arrived here at George Brown to find that your class was cancelled - or you thought it was cancelled because the door was closed, no one was there to fill you in, there wasn't even a notice?

Class cancellations without notice are not uncommon and can be very stressful and frustrating to students. Recently the Student Issues Committee of College Council raised this concern. As a result, the Deans Council has committed that in all cases of class cancellation, at the very minimum, a notice will be posted to inform students, and wherever possible, a staff person will meet you at the class.

The Student Issues Committee is in the process of putting forth further options for classes that have absent professors. For example, a generic assignment that can be completed independently. The assignment might include exercises in personal development and career planning, or an independent study exercise that relates to your program.

If you have any questions, comments or suggestions please drop them in the SAC suggestion box at St. James or stop by the SAC office at your campus.

Student Council covers costs for G.B.C.'s Nursing Students..

In late December Jocelyn Dance, President of the St. James Student Administrative Council presented a cheque to Alison Hutchins, Ontario Director of the Canadian Nursing Students Association (CNSA), to pay association membership fees for George Brown's 800 nursing students. George Brown is the first college to join the CNSA. Until a recent change in policy, membership in the CNSA was restricted to students in degree granting institutions. The $4 per student membership fee provides a opportunity for students to meet professionals at the nation and regional conferences as well as lobbying on their behalf. Currently the CSNA is seeking health plan coverage for Hepatitis B shots that cost each nursing student about $90, and is studying the proposed changes in health and accident cover for students.

A pub was held to celebrate the occasion in the north cafeteria at St. James campus. At the pub, nursing students presented what they call the "First Annual Golden Bedpan Awards" to nursing teacher Penny Vernon and math and science teacher Diane Wardrope, who are staff advisors to the S.A.C. funded Student Nursing Association at George Brown.

COME SPEND THE SUMMER LEARNING FRENCH IN LA POCATIERE, QUEBEC

Did you know that George Brown College has a French language summer immersion programme in La Pocatiere, Quebec? Did you know that you can apply for a bursary to attend this programme?

"I thoroughly enjoyed my summer here studying French. I think the teachers and the animateurs are excellent and the people in general are very warm. This program has given me a great opportunity to learn French and feel I have improved since I have been there."

"Thank you very much for a wonderful experience."

These are only a few comments made by students in the Summer Immersion Programme offered by George Brown College in La Pocatiere.

This year again, between June 26 and August 6, about 100 students will share the experience of learning French in in the beautiful "Bas St-Laurent" region.

There, the students participate in a large selection of activities. Mornings are spent in the classroom where emphasis is placed on oral skills in French. In the afternoons, students attend workshops about the Quebecois culture. Evenings are free, but there is a choice of athletic and cultural activities.

There is a trip to Quebec City for a weekend during the Summer Festival. Two optional camping trips to a lakeside resort are also available. All other weekends are free, but the staff organizes small trips in the area of La Pocatiere.

All students have their own rooms in the comfortable residences of the CEGEP de La Pocatiere. They also have access to the swimming pool, the gym and the library.

Most expenses (tuition, meals, accomodation, use of the CEGEP facilities) are covered by the bursary. The deadline for applying for a bursary has not been determined yet, but it should be by the end of February. Please note that not-bursary students are also welcome.

You will find out about learning French in the summer in La Pocatiere, and those eligible for a bursary (Canadians and landed immigrants) will get information on how to apply by calling us at 867-2435 or 1-800-265-2002 ext. 2435 at the French Centre. Or see your student counsellor. A Bientot!

ENTERTAINMENT

Bizarre Notes

with

Tim Kemp

Well here it is, another month in the life of entertainment at CBC. I have only seen one movie since the last month, Toys, and it sucked so I am not even going to talk about it.

There is quite a few things coming up in the month of February. As you all know, it is African History month, and there is a lot of events taking place to commemorate this.

On Feb. 11 at 7pm there is a free public forum entitled SPORT AND ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIPS, WHO WINS? The forum will discuss the benefits and pitfalls of athletic scholarships for African-Canadian youth. It is located at Harbord Collegiate, 286 Harbord Street.

All throughout February at Harbourfront Center, KUUMBA (Swahili for unity) will be presenting celebrations featuring film, theater, panel discussions, music and participatory crafts for families. Most events are free and everyone is welcome.

All events take place at York Quay Center, 235 Queens Quay west. For information call 973-3000.

We at the Dialog encourage everyone to come out and support these worthy events.

STARGAZING

By: Roulla Lenska

What a busy month in the world of following stars and people with real lives around town.

My sources tell me that a certain star of Lethal Weapon was seen smooching with a certain SAC president, (and I'm not talking about Jocelyn). The inside scoop is that they spent the weekend in a suite at the King James. Even room service is blushing.

It seems that the guy who plays all the ugly bad guy's in movies was seen down at the antique market on the weekend. Nobody really cared.

The gloved one is at it again. It seems that he has decided to build a new theme park called cherry world. "Lots of cherries" says the rapidly descending star, and a big slide that dump's you in a vat of this gooey white stuff. Perhaps he has finally lost it.

Both of Colleen McDowells cats are sexless. A close source to her has confirmed that she has had all of those sex organs removed and that any attempts at sex with them is futile. Colleen would not return my calls.

Well that is it for this month. Until next month, keep looking for those stars.

Alumni Report:

On Jan. 20, 15 former basketball stars returned to see if they still had it. Well they did, experience won over youth. The alumnae beat our women's team 93-78. These games prove to be a lot of fun for all involved. This allows for old acquaintances to be renewed.

The men will be playing their alumni game on Jan. 27, at 8:00 p.m. at St. James Gym.

All Varsity games are played at St. James Campus. C'mon out and show your support....

TORONTO HUMAN SOCIETY

PSA's from the Toronto Human Society

1. When the freezing weather arrives, you're not the only one who notices. Your cat notices too. Cats may not be used to snow, ice and extreme cold. Please take care of your cat by keeping him indoors during the cold weather.
2. Snow, ice and extreme cold can harm your pet dog. Walk short-haired breeds just a few minutes during very cold weather. Even long-haired breeds shouldn't be outdoors for more than 20 minutes. For more information, please call the Toronto Humane Society at 392-2273.

MARIO'S CORNER

I found it kind of funny that the show "The Untouchables" is brought to you by Budwieser.

I don't know how the Leafs ever convinced the Flames to let Doug Gilmour go, but that's OK because they beat Montreal a week before.

Here's a few names in the NHL I find amusing:

Kevin Todd
Frank Pietrangelo
Wendel Clark
Brad May
Rob Ray
Dirk Graham
Steve Thomas
Greg Gilbert
Mike Craig
John Casey
Patrick Roy
Todd Gill
Iain Fraser

You know, if the NHL adopted CFL rules, a team would get a point for icing the puck.

You know what's puzzling, Chicago Black Hawk goon, Stu "The Grim Reaper" Grimson, is a born-again Christian and Leaf goon Ken "The Boomer" Baumgartner majored in Law and minored in computer's in University and is a V.P. of the NHLPA. I guess you really can't tell a book by it's cover, but boy what a fight they had Saturday night.

In an attempt to be more responsive to our students needs, the Financial Aid Office will change hours of operation which are now in effect (start date was second week of January 1993).

We will now remain open on Tuesday of each week, and close on Fridays. As well, the office will be open each Thursday until 5:30pm to enable students to access any O.S.A.P. funding they may otherwise have picked up on a Friday. One of the reasons that prompted this change is that Fridays are somewhat slower in terms of traffic than other days of the week.

All of us in the Financial Aid Office have greatly appreciated our clients patience and understanding when faced with such long line-ups (the "wave" that started one day last month was a lot of fun for us too). We sincerely hope you will not be unduly inconvenienced by the above change. Should you have any suggestions on how we may improve our service, please do not hesitate to discuss them with us.

Thank you very much, and we look forward to being able to serve you in the coming months.

Audrey Albert
Manager, Financial Aid
